THE
FIRST EVER
DEAD AND SUBBURIED
HORRORTHON

SATURDAY 26TH MARCH

All day horrorthon, seven classic horror movies on the big screen, back to back with a fully licensed bar and food.

Night Of The Living Dead (1968)

George A. Romero's low-budget 1968 horror classic set the template for the flesh-eating zombie film, shot in black and white featuring tight editing, realistic gore and a sly political undercurrent.

Texas Chain Saw Massacre (1974)

The Texas Chain Saw Massacre not only changed the face of horror in 1974 but still remains one of the most shocking, powerful and terrifying films ever made. Widely banned upon release its notoriety has not diminished and this harrowing tale continues to stun and disturb audiences.

An American Werewolf In London (1981)

Terrifying and funny in almost equal measure, John Landis' horror-comedy crosses genres while introducing Rick Baker's astounding and Oscar winning make-up effects - still the definitive werewolf movie.

The Shining (1980)

Stanley Kubrick's The Shining, based upon the best-selling novel by Stephen King is a chilling, often baroque journey into madness, exemplified by an unforgettable turn from Jack Nicholson.

Evil Dead 2 (1987)

This high-octane sequel to Sam Raimi's cult hit The Evil Dead has nearly eclipsed its predecessor's reputation thanks to an endless barrage of hyperkinetic camera acrobatics, rapid-fire editing and "splatstick" gore effects.

The Thing (1982)

John Carpenter's remake of the 1950's classic, The Thing is a tense sci-fi thriller rife with compelling tension and some remarkable make-up effects.

The Exorcist (1973)

The Exorcist rides its supernatural theme to magical effect, with remarkable special effects and an eerie atmosphere, resulting in one of the scariest films of all time.

Starts midday till late, final admission 11pm. Over-18's only. Tickets £19.50.
